Abstract

The economic and legal circumstances of the operation of local public transport are a set of framework guidelines, which form the image of the sphere of transport activity of local governments. The purpose of this paper is to analyze the economic and legal circumstances of the organization and operation of the transport system. This paper presents models of solutions for the organization and operation of the local public transport system: the current model and the new market model. Individual statements are presented in the final conclusions of this work. The article is further supported with illustrations.
