Abstract

The quality of life is directly related to the socio-economic situation of the country. The crisis directly related to the COVID-19 pandemic in Poland affected enterprises that directly affected the labor market and shaping the quality of life of society. The article identifies and analyzes the phenomenon of public financial support in the country as an intervention in the era of COVID-19 for SMEs. It has been shown that public administration interventions in the era of COVID-19 had an impact on the quality of life. This relationship is particularly visible in the formation of the GDP indicator.
